CATHOLIC EDUCATION FOUNDATION
ANNUAL STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTABILITY 2011
The Oak Sapling

Almost 15 years ago, the CEF adopted the Oak Sapling as its iconic logo to best signify what CEF students are all about.

1. Deeply Rooted - like an oak sapling, CEF students are forging deep connections in Los Angeles communities, identifying with the Catholic community, learning about what commitment means and developing a solid sense of accomplishment that will carry them through their lives.

2. Strong - an oak tree is one of the most solid and long lasting of all trees, able to weather many storms and ecological conditions. CEF students learn life lessons through a Catholic school filter, bringing them to adulthood with the skills to face the personal challenges and storms that come their way.

3. Productive - an oak sapling grows quickly and rapidly produces new growth. Like the sapling, CEF students are learning the value of developing themselves into contributing citizens and highly functioning members of our social, spiritual and economic worlds.

4. Hopeful - a sapling signifies the beginning of what will be something very significant. CEF students learn every day of their value. Failure is not an option. Expectations are high, bringing great optimism and hope for the future.
Beloved CEF Supporters,

Upon taking the leadership of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, I was happy to find a successful Catholic Education Foundation, making a big difference in the life of our Catholic schools, their students and families.

As we enter this 25th anniversary year for the CEF, I would like to express my gratitude to those who came before me, especially Cardinal Mahony, who had the vision to anticipate the great need for tuition support for our poorest families. Without the $119 million in tuition assistance provided to over 118,500 recipients during these past 24 years, many of our schools would not have survived the economic hardships that continue to impact urban families.

I would also like to offer my congratulations to our newly formed Board of Regents, chaired by Cardinal Mahony. I am pleased to have this group’s continued support and advice as we lead the CEF into the next 25 years. The Regents are former CEF Trustees, involved since the very beginning of the CEF. Their experience and history are invaluable to me as I now chair this Foundation.

To our faithful Trustees, I am grateful for your leadership and stewardship over the many resources at the CEF - the endowment, the programs, the donors and the staff. These assets all work together to produce extraordinary and long-lasting results for our students and our Church.

I thank you for your continued support of this great initiative and assure you of my heartfelt prayers for each one of you and your families.

May Jesus, through the intercession of Mary, grant you peace and joy,

+ José H. Gomez

Most Reverend José H. Gomez
Archbishop of Los Angeles
Chairman
The CEF’s core mission is to provide Catholic school tuition awards to children whose families live at or below the poverty line. Using the federal government’s guidelines, a qualifying minimum annual income for a family of four for this school year was $34,000; the actual average household income for a CEF student in a family of four was less than $24,000. There are two basic tuition support programs: TAP and SOS.

The Tuition Awards Program (TAP) serves students in Catholic Pre-K, elementary and high schools throughout the Archdiocese of Los Angeles. The school principals provide CEF applications to the families and help them apply. Awards are made in amounts ranging from $800 to $2,000, which represents about 25% of the tuition bill. Children are accepted into TAP regardless of ethnic or religious background.

The Save Our Students (SOS) Program helps students who meet the requirements of TAP and are considered most “at risk” due to extraordinary personal circumstances (e.g. foster care, parents incarcerated, victims of abuse or neglect, witnesses to violence, living in a shelter, etc.). SOS awards range from $1,500 to $2,500 per student because they are the most vulnerable to dropping out of school entirely.

The CEF has certain donor-designated programs to enhance the Catholic school experience. These currently include The Big Yellow Bus Program, which provides students at inner-city Catholic schools with transportation for educational and spiritual field trips. The Art Trek Program delivers sequential, hands-on art lessons and Teacher Trek is now providing lesson planning for teachers to conduct art classes. There is also a program to help schools with sports equipment.

The Principal Development Program (PDP) was developed to assist Catholic school leaders in earning advanced degrees to prepare them for the role of school principal. The CEF’s funding supports Loyola Marymount University’s Catholic School Leadership Academy, which allows full-time teachers in the Los Angeles Archdiocese to earn an M.A. in Catholic School Administration.
Dear CEF Friends,

Having completed my first year as president of the CEF, I'm inspired and even more committed to the CEF students, their schools and the CEF staff who work together to achieve an important mission for our Archdiocese. I am especially pleased that this was the most successful year in the history of the CEF. We raised $5.1 million in new current use cash, which was immediately used to fund 8,400 students.

What was especially gratifying to me was the $12.1 million in endowment gifts received this year, including the magnificent $11.3 million endowment gift from Frank and Blanche Seaver. I advised the Trustees the primary goal for my presidency is to increase our endowment, so what a perfect way to begin our endowment campaign!

Please take a moment to read the recent study on CEF students produced by Loyola Marymount University; it's easily found on the CEF website. This report truly validates our work at the CEF – there is no better way to invest in a CEF student than through a Catholic school education. CEF students are assured of a 100% continuation rate from 8th to 9th grade, a 98% four-year high school graduation rate and a 98% college attendance rate.

Thank you for investing in our CEF students. Your return is realized in their success and in the generations to come who will benefit from the life lessons, academics and faith-inspired values that are taught in Catholic schools. Please continue to keep CEF students in your annual giving plans and be sure to include the CEF in your will – that's the primary way that we'll reach our endowment goal!

Sincerely,

ARCHBISHOP WELCOME DINNER

On May 26th, with a record-breaking 643 supporters in attendance, the CEF gave Archbishop José H. Gomez a big Southern California welcome in the Conference Center’s ball room at the Cathedral.

Corporate sponsors and event underwriters were welcomed to the Archbishop’s residence prior to a terrific reception on the Cathedral’s Plaza where all the Guests enjoyed socializing prior to entering the Conference Center. It had been transformed by special décor and lighting brought in by supporters of the CEF and, with a specially prepared menu, the evening was first class from beginning to end.

The Archbishop’s keynote address highlighted his support for the Catholic schools in the Archdiocese and especially those that serve the poor, citing the CEF’s mission to provide tuition assistance where needed. He advised the group that the CEF would be funding 7,000 students, but had 10,000 students on their waiting list, asking, “What are they waiting for?” “It is our honor and privilege to serve the poor with a life-changing Catholic school education.”

Certainly a highlight of the evening was when CEF founding president, the Hon. Richard Riordan, former Mayor of Los Angeles, presented the Archbishop with an “L.A. Experience”, which included over 16 events depicting what the Archdiocese of Los Angeles is all about. The former Mayor had quite a reaction from the guests when he offered his personal opinions and advice on each experience!

Trustee Charlie Steinmetz and his wife, Ellen, enjoy the reception on the Cathedral's Plaza with Susan Rice, a member of the CEF's Development Committee. Charlie and his family fund the Big Yellow Bus program, providing buses for elementary and high school students to go on field trips, visit colleges, and expand their L.A. experiences beyond the local community.

Archbishop Gomez with CEF president Tom Barron, his wife, Margot, and the CEF's chaplain, Fr. Ken Deasy. Archbishop Gomez personally greeted all of the guests.

World-class photographer Victor Aleman captures Archbishop Gomez with Frank Sanchez, CEF Trustee and co-chair for the Welcome Dinner and his wife, Julia.
Recognizing the Cardinal during his final year as Chairman of the Board for establishing the CEF, Founding Trustee Peter Mullin and his wife Merle graciously hosted the fellow Trustees that made up the nucleus in its very early days. The evening allowed them to reflect upon the Foundation’s growth and to celebrate the many accomplishments of the first twenty-four years, as well as to look ahead to the future of the Foundation.

This fiscal year was record-breaking for the CEF. The CEF received a total of $12.1 million in legacy endowment gifts including $11.3 million from the estate of Frank and Blanche Seaver. Because endowment spending is based on the trailing three-year average of assets at year end, these new endowment gifts will impact program spending in the next fiscal year.

In addition, the CEF development team raised a record $5.1 million in current use funds, including a special $570K gift from the Fors Family Trust to fund SOS awards. This effort exceeded the current use goal of $3.3 million and enabled CEF to clear over 1,200 students from the waiting list.

The CEF is comprised of a staff of ten employees who operate at a high level of efficiency and maintain quality service to donors and the schools and students they serve. The CEF program office receives an increase of applications every year. In fiscal year 2011, the program team reviewed and processed 17,500 applications from financially qualified students in three separate application cycles for the 2012 school year. This volume of productivity was made possible because of the dedicated team at the CEF.

Dear CEF Stakeholders,

How does one improve on excellent performance? Teamwork and Stretch Goals! Those are the keys to the CEF’s success in recent years and especially in this year.

Teamwork - we have a small, highly flexible staff of professionals who work closely with our board and committee members to plan and achieve objectives driven in two areas: understanding the great needs of our students and capturing the largest donor base we can to meet those needs. With teamwork, we are able to do more with less.

Stretch Goals - we look at how many applications we can fund based on endowment spending and a reasonable fundraising objective for the year. Then we look at the waiting list and consider ways to tap even more donations to help those deserving students.

As a result of Teamwork and Stretch Goals, we raised $5.1 million in cash, exceeding our $3.3 million annual fundraising goal. This allowed us to fund 7,000 students who were already in our budget and 1,400 students who were on our waiting list.

It is a great privilege to work for CEF students and the schools who provide them with an excellent education. With 99% of this year’s graduating senior class headed off to college, we are so proud of their success and thank you, our donors, for making this possible.

Sincerely,

Kathleen H. Anderson

LEGACY SOCIETY

Eight gifts provided $12.1 million in additional funding for the endowment. One of the cornerstones for the future prosperity of the CEF, Legacy Gifts offer a meaningful, lasting difference through supporting tuition assistance to deserving students in the future. No matter the size, such planned gifts make a statement that you have made the decision to continue to be part of the CEF’s mission, knowing your gift will help our most under-served children have a stable, nurturing environment - giving them hope for a better life.

FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE LEGACY SOCIETY

Dear CEF Supporters,

The CEF launched a major initiative to grow the CEF’s endowment so we can help even more of the students who qualify for our tuition support. There is no easier way to do this than by asking our CEF friends to provide for our students in their wills.

This is the gift you leave behind that speaks so much to what was important in your life. Our CEF supporters know the life-changing experiences of a Catholic school education, and they would like the generations to come to have those same experiences.

Some of you may have already provided for your favorite charities, universities and foundations, so please remember to add the CEF to your list.

I’ve made this commitment in my will because I believe every child deserves a quality education, especially the poor. For those most in need, a Catholic school is often the only opportunity for a path to a successful life.

I hope you will join with me in making a Legacy Gift to the CEF in this upcoming 25th anniversary year.

Where there’s a will, there’s a way!

Hon. Richard J. Riordan
Chairman
THE SEAVERS’ GIFT

The Catholic Education Foundation received this year the largest cash gift in the foundation’s 24-year history—an $11.3 million gift to establish the Frank and Blanche Seaver Scholarship Endowment Fund. This gift will provide for at least 600 tuition awards every year to financially deserving students attending Catholic schools in the poorest neighborhoods throughout the Archdiocese of Los Angeles.

“My great-uncle Frank believed in the importance of an excellent education for every child,” advised Victoria Seaver Dean. “He recognized that there is a particular potential in every child that only a values-based education can cultivate.” That’s why he wanted his legacy to go to children who want to attend Catholic schools but don’t have the resources. According to Frank Seaver, “Children are the future of our country and we must provide an education that allows them to use their talents to become industrious and responsible citizens.”

Frank and Blanche Seaver had no children of their own, but their legacy will live on in CEF students. During their lifetime, Frank and Blanche made significant commitments to education in Southern California that can be found in buildings with the family name at Pomona College, Loyola Marymount University, Pilgrim School, and Pepperdine University, among others.

Cardinal Roger Mahony received the gift on behalf of the CEF. Although Frank Seaver was not a Catholic, he supported the Catholic schools because in his mind they welcomed all children in ways that other schools could not. According to Cardinal Mahony, “Frank Seaver understood that teaching faith, morals and values would prepare children to make a difference in their lives and particularly to our country.”
With supreme gratitude and kindest affection we remember Bill Huston. Not only was he a founding member of the Catholic Education Foundation’s Board, he was also the longest-serving Trustee of the Foundation from 1986 until his passing. At the December CEF Board meeting, he was present with many of his family members when Cardinal Mahony designated him as President Emeritus, and later he became a founding member of CEF’s Board of Regents. Moreover, Bill served as the Foundation’s second president from June 1993 until June 2000.

In addition to his leadership, vision and compassion for the CEF’s mission, Bill was responsible for facilitating the largest endowment gift ever received - stock in the privately owned real estate investment company, the Watson Land Company, which today is valued at almost $75 million in the CEF’s financial portfolio. This gift was made from the estate of Susana Watson Lacayo, the aunt of Bill’s wife, Susana Watson Huston who survives him.

Bill served as CEO of Watson Land for 40 years and led the effort that moved the company into master-planned industrial parks in urban settings, resulting in significant enhanced value to its shareholders, including the CEF. As a result of Bill’s leadership, the book value increased to present levels from the $15 million original gift valuation when it was received between 1988 and 1993. Since then, the stock has paid over $31 million in cash dividends to the CEF!

Bill also gave personally every year, serving as an exemplary Trustee. He believed that an education, particularly a Catholic school education, was the best gift you could make to any child. His own children and grandchildren are proof positive. He worked tirelessly to make sure that all children could have this benefit. At the Board meetings, Bill would push hard for more program awards, saying “If we don’t help these children now, they will be lost - this is our responsibility.”

In addition to his wife Susana, Bill is survived by eight children and 18 grandchildren. He is also survived by tens of thousands of CEF recipients whose lives have been forever changed because they received a Catholic school education.
The Catholic Education Foundation launched the Catholic School Alumni Network (CSAN), spearheaded by CEF Trustee, Julie Condon. This is an excellent way for all Catholic school alumni to get connected. Whether you’ve had one year, eight years, or twelve years of Catholic school education, the CEF invites you to connect with Catholic school alumni just like you and, together, support Catholic schools throughout the Archdiocese of Los Angeles.

By joining CSAN, you will be associated with Catholic school alumni who live in the Archdiocese of Los Angeles. As CSAN grows, the CEF website will also grow into a forum for sharing information, opportunities to get involved, and the place to help raise funds for families needing tuition assistance. The Catholic School Alumni Network is all about “friend raising and fundraising!” It’s easy to sign up. Just visit the website at www.cefdn.org to register.

One of the CEF’s core initiatives is to teach students the importance of gratitude and the impact of giving back. The CEF has encouraged recipients of tuition awards to give back to the Foundation that enabled their Catholic school education. No gift is too small!

CSAN has been blessed by a generous matching gift agreement from an anonymous donor. For the first 1,000 members who sign up, the Catholic Education Foundation will receive $10 per name for the CEF Tuition Awards Program. So, if 1,000 members sign up, we can raise $10,000 to provide ten elementary school students with an opportunity to learn in a Catholic school. Join the CSAN today and connect with fellow Catholic school alumni!
More than 150 fans of the CEF and Rob Smith gathered at this appreciation dinner to say “Job well done!” During Rob’s term, the CEF funded over $50 million in tuition awards to over 50,000 awardees while tripling the numbers of the CEF’s donors.

The dinner featured a surprise roast by Rob’s successor, incoming CEF President Tom Barron, which had everyone laughing along with Rob himself, and former CEF student recipients spoke about how their tuition awards positively impacted them and their families.

A staunch believer in the value of a Catholic education, Rob truly walked the talk throughout his term as President by being an advocate of inner-city Catholic schools that predominantly serve the poor and marginalized. Rob truly believes that CEF students are the hope for their families and communities, and nothing made Rob happier than visiting a Catholic school and meeting CEF recipients.

The growth that CEF experienced under Rob’s leadership paved the way for the Foundation to further expand over the next decade and ensure that thousands more students would be able to benefit from a Catholic education.

The largest graduating class of CEF seniors (473) gathered at the Cathedral to celebrate their accomplishments with family and friends. Students assembled to hear the message of the gospel and words of inspiration from Bishop Oscar Solis as he implored them “to continue to go forward and grow in their faith while never forgetting their gratitude for those that allowed them their education.” He asked them to consider giving back to those that will follow them when they are in a position to do so.

Immediately following the Mass, hundreds of people gathered on the Plaza for a reception that included light refreshments. It was a great opportunity for Trustees and donors of the CEF to meet many of the students and interact with the recipients of their support and efforts.

This event also helped serve as the launch of the newly created Catholic Schools Alumni Network, an initiative the CEF has begun to keep former Catholic schools attendees connected with others throughout the Archdiocese. Please be aware, you do not have to have been a recipient of CEF to join, and there are lots of activities you can become involved with!
DEVELOPMENT

This year was the most successful year for both our current use fundraising efforts, with more than $5.1 million raised, as well as for our endowment, with gifts totaling more than $12.1 million. There were a multitude of reasons for the success, but none more central than the concerted effort amongst the Board of Trustees, the Development Committee and the CEF Staff. All three entities truly made the outstanding efforts necessary as a combined effort to keep pace with the ever-growing needs of our constituency.

While we laid out many new strategies, conducted a number of special events, and commenced new initiatives to further our fundraising efforts, our goal was to reinforce the central basis and long-held beliefs of the CEF – that our Foundation is only as strong as the relationships we maintain with our donors.

In this current fiscal year, we have made donor relations and a personal touch the foundation from which we will operate. This is as a result of the Board’s awareness, and the Staff’s recognition, that it is a privilege each donor bestows upon us with their charitable investments to have the greatest impact possible. We embrace the responsibility to be the best stewards of this trust.

We have once again set our fundraising goals higher than in any previous year, and each member of the Staff is committed to working with our volunteer leadership to accomplish these goals. But we also know that it is only through the grace of each of you that we will succeed. We hope you will continue to be a part of the success and make a positive impact!

Sincerely,

Anthony T. Sciacca
Vice President - Development
The Catholic Education Foundation relies on in-home events to cultivate awareness of its mission both within and beyond the boundaries of the three-county Archdiocese of Los Angeles.

These events are generally small gatherings hosted by our donors that give their friends and guests an opportunity to meet CEF students, listen to their stories and learn about the need for supporting Catholic schools. Breakfast and cocktail parties are the most common.

During this past year, we were very fortunate to have the opportunity to meet new friends in the greater Oxnard area through a combined effort of the Laudbacher and Paumier families, the Newbury Park neighborhood thanks to Jim and Kathy McCaffery, and the Thousand Oaks community through the graciousness of Peter and Gerri Wendell. CEF Trustee Jill Wondries hosted breakfast with Cardinal Mahony to introduce her friends in Pasadena, to the Foundation and Fred Ruopp graciously held a lunch with the Cardinal to share the CEF story with associates in downtown Los Angeles.

Each of these events cultivated and garnered new support for the CEF, which in turn raised additional monies to help more students.
When Cardinal Mahony became aware of the growing numbers of eligible students on the CEF's waiting list for funding, he worked with the CEF to approach funders to specifically help those students. With confidence that the CEF would reach its annual fundraising goal of $3.3 million, he was able to facilitate $1.5 million in additional funding for 1,250 elementary school students and 200 high school students. These funds were immediately deployed to students attending the schools located in the poorest communities throughout the Archdiocese.
With the Cardinal’s blessing and assistance from Monsignor Royale Vadakin, the CEF received $570,000 for students in the SOS program, many of whom had been placed on the waiting list; a $150,000 gift was made by another donor to begin an endowment for the SOS program. The SOS program was started in 1997 by Ruth Orford and her late husband, Dick, to help students who are the most at-risk of dropping out.

There has been tremendous growth in both the need as well as the funding of this special program. In just 2 years, the number of students funded has increased from 191 to 311, and the tuition assistance has increased from $328K to $570K.
Supporters of the CEF gathered at the Mullin Automotive Museum in September and stepped back in time to the Art Deco era of French automobiles. Merle and Peter Mullin, founding Trustee, opened their private museum in Oxnard to the CEF for an evening of friendship and fundraising.

Guests were treated to an exclusive viewing of some of the world’s rarest automobiles, guided by docents throughout the facility. With very little formal program, attendees were free to enjoy a night full of great food, fellowship and truly classic cars!

With net proceeds over $120,000 for the Tuition Awards Program, the evening was a tremendous success.
Cardinal Mahony concelebrated Mass in the chapel at Bishop Conaty – Our Lady of Loretto High School with Archbishop Gomez for the Board of Trustees and members of the CEF’s standing committees.

During the Annual Meeting, former Board President William T. Huston was appointed by Cardinal Mahony as CEF President and Trustee Emeritus. Bill’s wife, Susana, was present along with their grown children and two of their many grandchildren to receive this recognition.

In addition to presentations of strategies for the coming year, CEF recipient Lucia Magos addressed the group during the business portion of the meeting, which took place during the annual Christmas lunch.

CEF President Tom Barron then recognized this as the last CEF meeting to be chaired by Cardinal Mahony and presented the Cardinal with a proclamation from the Board of Trustees as Chairman Emeritus and founding Chairman of the Board of Regents.

THANK YOU FOR BEING A PART OF OUR SUCCESS!
On March 1st Cardinal Roger M. Mahony retired as acting Archbishop of Los Angeles, at which time Archbishop José H. Gomez took the helm of the CEF’s Board. Upon his retirement, Cardinal Mahony accepted Archbishop Gomez’s invitation to act as founding chairman of the CEF’s newly established Board of Regents. The Cardinal then invited eleven of the CEF’s Trustees who had served with him from the early years to join him in these new efforts.

During his 24-year term as CEF Board Chairman, the Cardinal was responsible for over $119 million in total tuition awards made to more than 118,500 recipients. The impact of this is seen today in the 98% four-year graduation rate of CEF high school students and a 98% college attendance rate.

More importantly, virtually every urban Catholic school serving the poor knows what a lifeline the CEF has been to these students and to their schools. It was truly the vision of the Cardinal that reaped these results and curbed the nationwide trend of Catholic school closures during this same period for L.A. area schools.

The CEF’s Board of Regents will advise the Archbishop on matters pertaining to the CEF’s mission and will also take on the challenge of working with the CEF’s planned giving committee to increase the CEF’s endowment.
The Catholic Education Foundation is committed to providing tuition assistance to the most financially deserving students attending Parish elementary schools and Catholic high schools within the Archdiocese of Los Angeles.
